OH MSC. . .

Education is an individual thing. When man takes up his books he begins a process which he controls, for no one else can measure the amount of knowledge he gathers. When man puts down the tools of formal education he goes on in life, using his knowledge and experience in obtaining society's most precious gem . . . wisdom.

The tools of education come in many forms, some tangible, some not. As man does not live by bread alone, his learning also is not devoid of others. Be it group living or organized activities, man's knowledge is enriched by it.

M

The physical properties of a center of learning are seen in a different light than other buildings of similar size and shape. The searching scent of learning lingers in the halls, the minds of those gathered there seek to slake the thirst of knowledge, and the minds of those who have left are filled with memories of how the thirst was quenched.

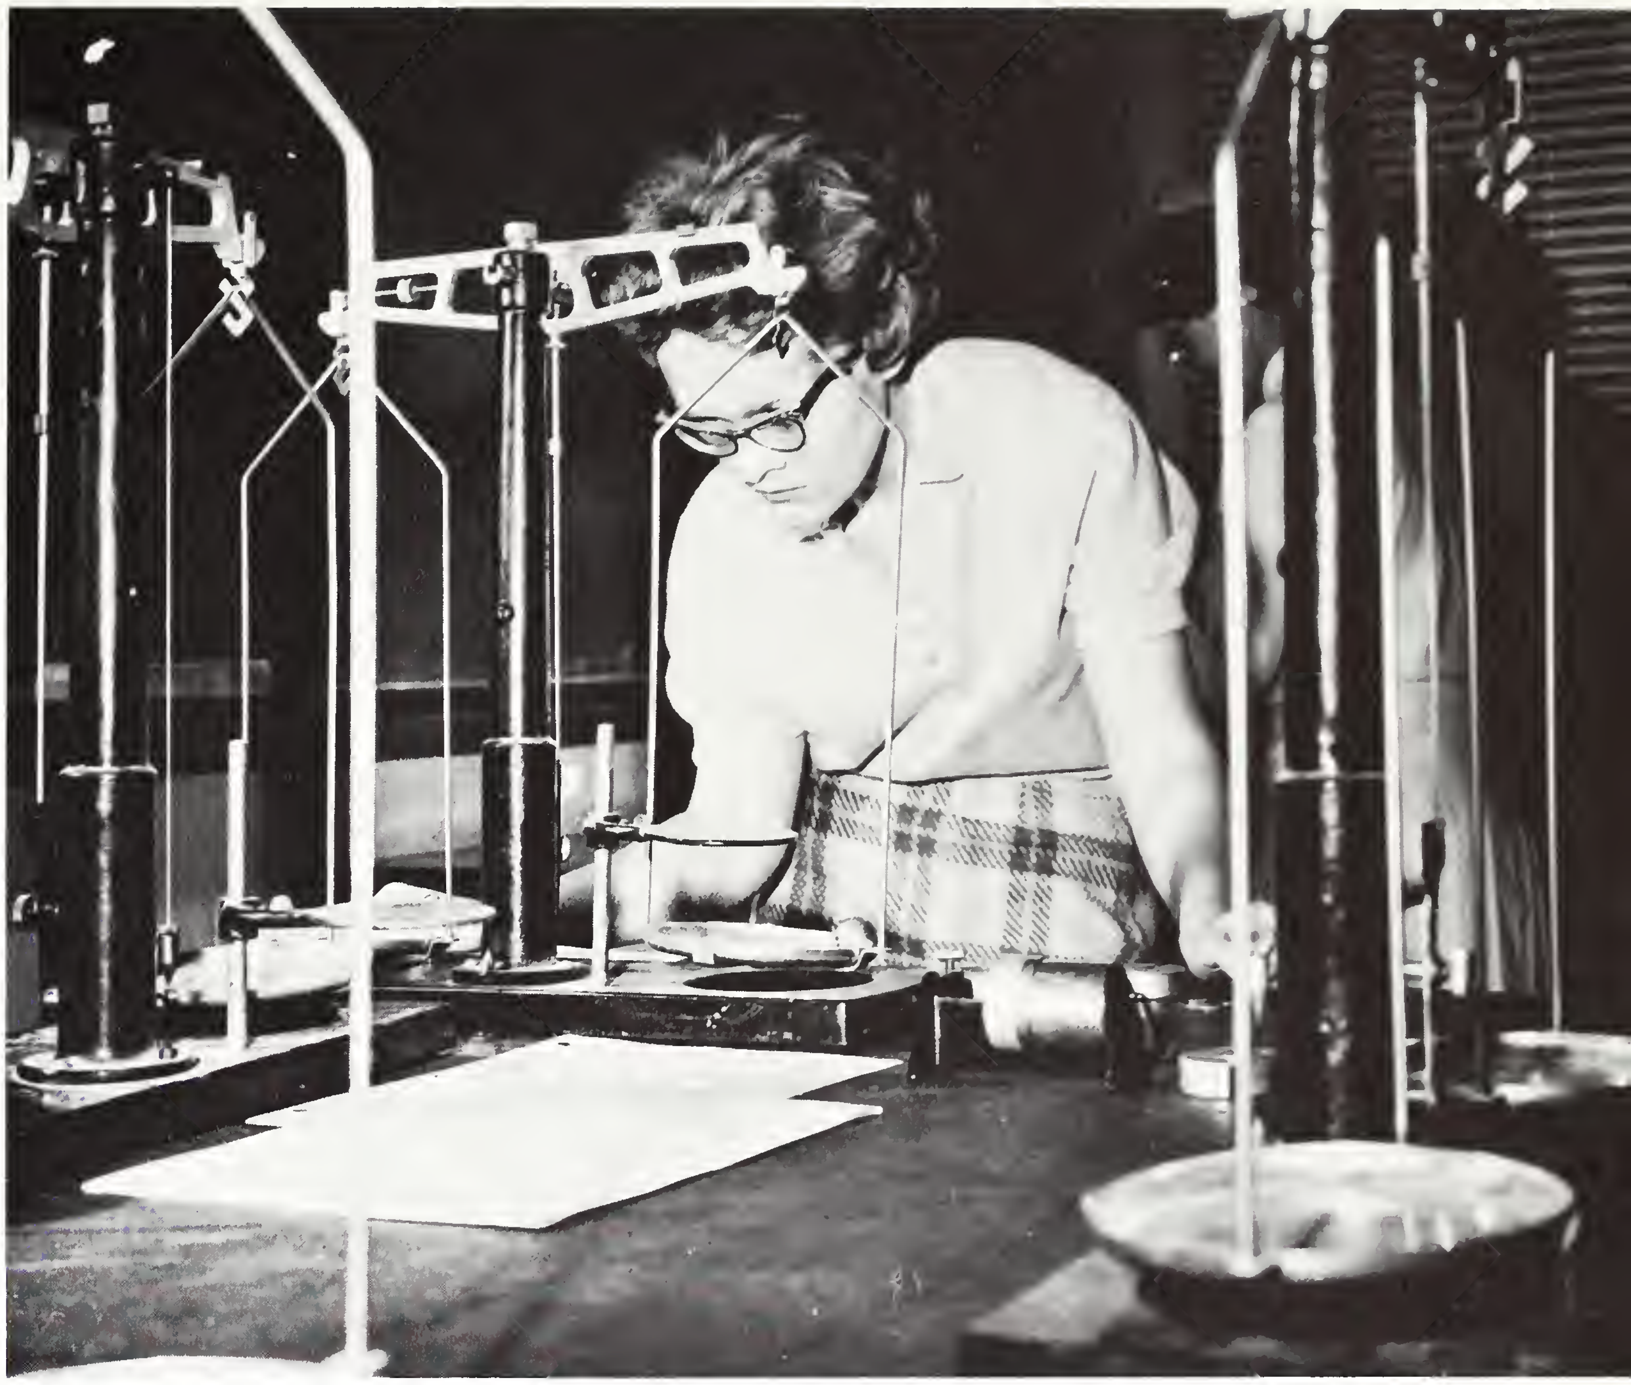
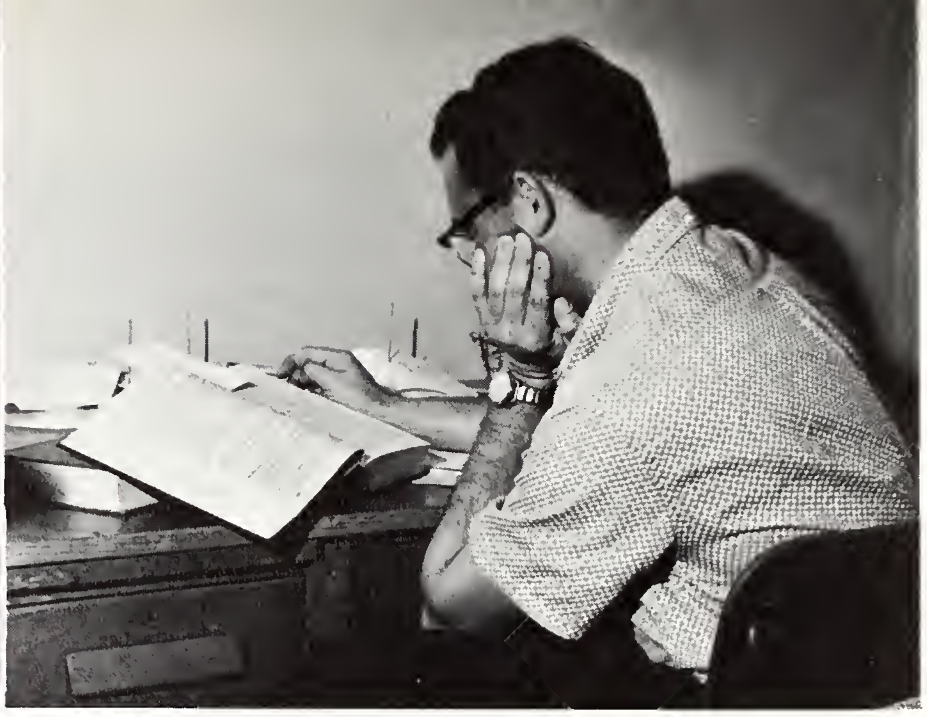
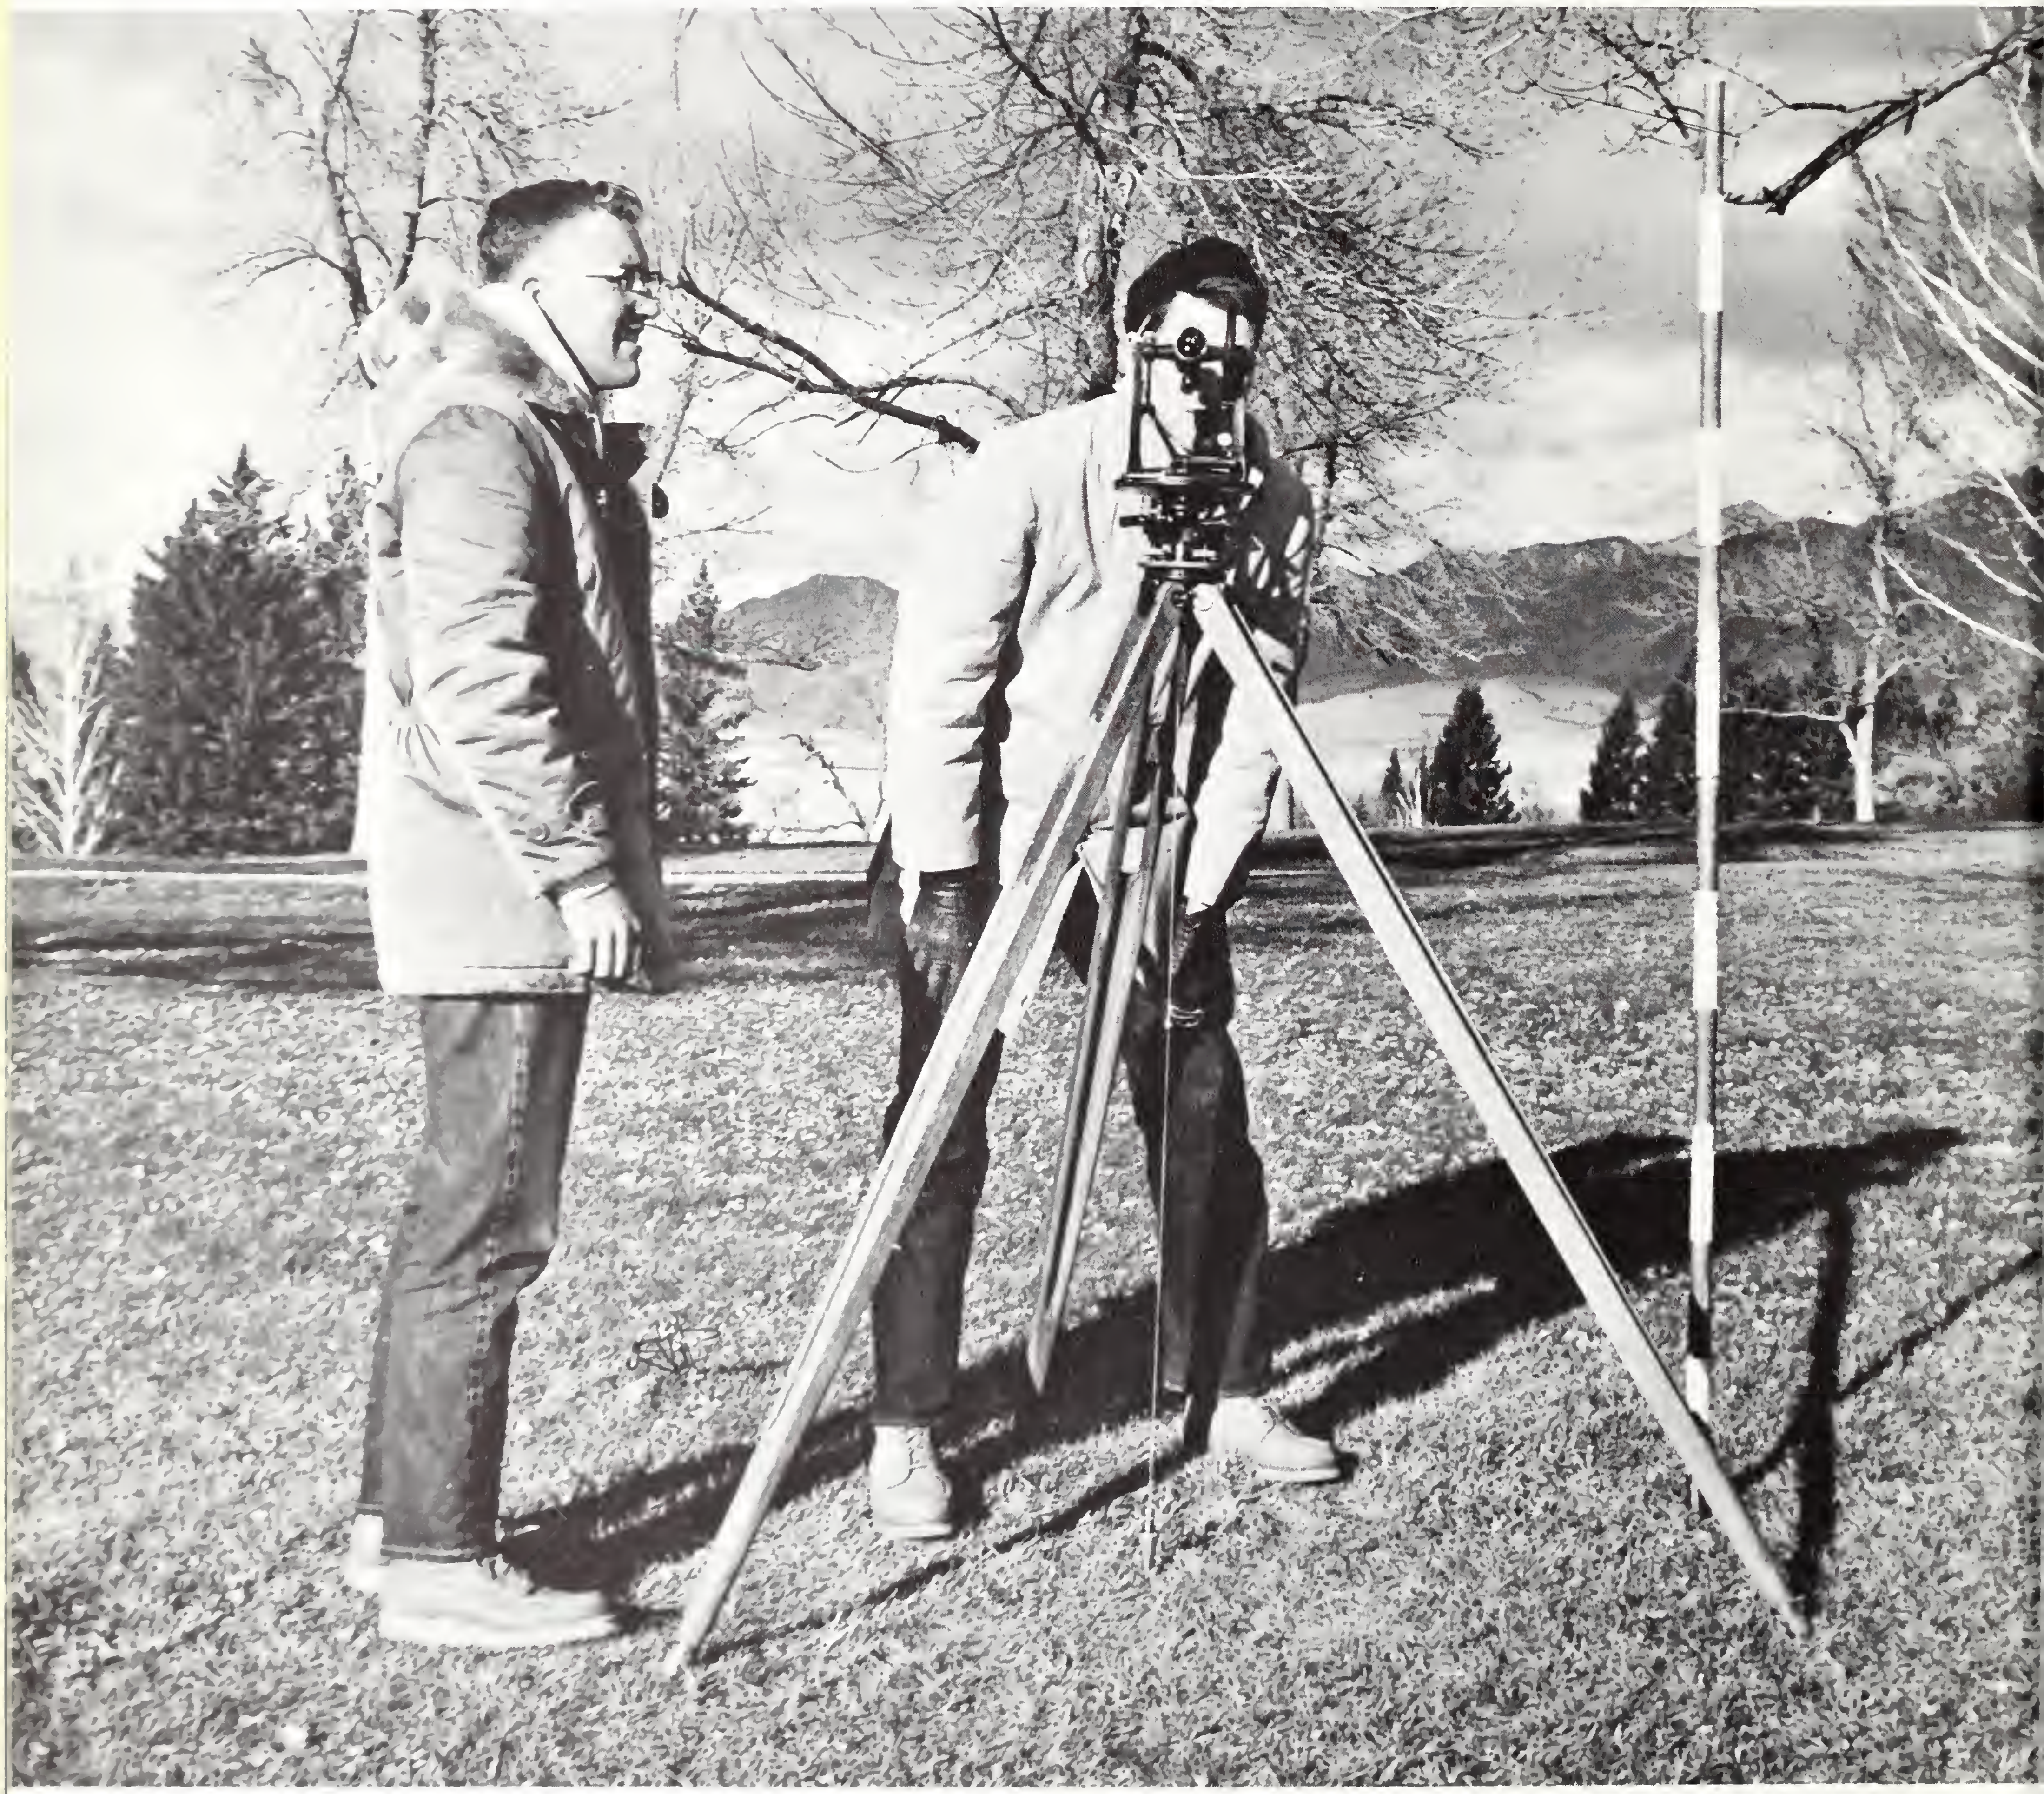
LONG MAY THY POWER ENDURING

The gift of learning is also a gift in terms of time. The material returns for the long hours of classroom and lab work seem small, but when the time spent for formal education is compared with the time it will be used in life, the price paid for knowledge in terms of time suddenly becomes unimportant.

BE . . .







The educational pursuits of man are many and varied. It is in this respect that the individuality of man is revealed. The individual is not a stereotype of all students, but rather develops and furthers his knowledge in the fields in which his interest and talents lie.

ALMA

Tradition. Through this word a bond between students of all generations is established. Memories and hopes are combined to form an allegiance to an institution which built and will continue to build lasting friendships.

MATER HAIL TO THEE

Well-worn drumheads and an often-used gym floor tell the tale of an unending line of students over the years. Some will never return — others will come back and still find the drum setting the pace and the floor catering to younger feet, feet that someday will return as they have done.

A student is one who questions; questions the peculiarity of a channel of a stream, or the properties of the ice in the bottom of a coke. Questions answered give rise to other questions, and so the chain of learning is established.

Look
marriage always separates the ... from ...

KEEP OFF ALLEYS CALL Attendant

"No man is an island." Meeting others is one of the greatest advantages afforded students. Be the associations gained in a large group or singly, the students are the better for it.

There comes a time when the studies must be laid aside and temporarily forgotten. The time is used to relax and put aside the worry of grades and assignments, to allow the student to stop and take stock of his accomplishments.

Contemplation. The student soon finds that to relax is to start thinking of things yet to be done, things done in the past, and things that need doing right now. And so the machinery that ground to a halt during the break is put into motion again. SUB tables are left alone, and doors swing open as work is again resumed.

EVENTS

GO CATS GO
MSC RODEO

There is an aspect of education which does not appear in text books, but rather which manifests itself in human relationships. It is found wherever people meet, be they old friends, or strangers meeting each other for the first time. To this particular division of education the many and varied events of Montana State College are dedicated. Sports events, homecoming, religious emphasis week, fraternity rush week, all of these events give MSC's students a chance to work with others, an opportunity to learn the working of society. Truely, this branch of education can never be replaced by text books.

The thing that an undergraduate student looks forward to most is becoming an alumnus. The inverse of this is also true. An Alum dreams of good times gone by. Put these two feelings in the pot, stir like the devil, and you have a homecoming. Parades, queens, the big game, old friendships renewed and new acquaintences made, all of these make up the biggest event on either side of the graduation fence — homecoming.

Five long days and then it's here, the weekend. To those who are blessed with Saturday classes, it starts with the skipping of an 8 o'clock chem quiz, others jump the gun by putting down the books Friday noon. Picnics, going home, or just lazing around, they all make Saturday the best day of the week. The Saturday night dance, sleeping in on Sunday morning, the Sunday night show, and all of the sudden it's Monday morning again. Just think, only five more days.

Smiles and roses, the crowning of Queen Barbara to reign over the homecoming festivities.

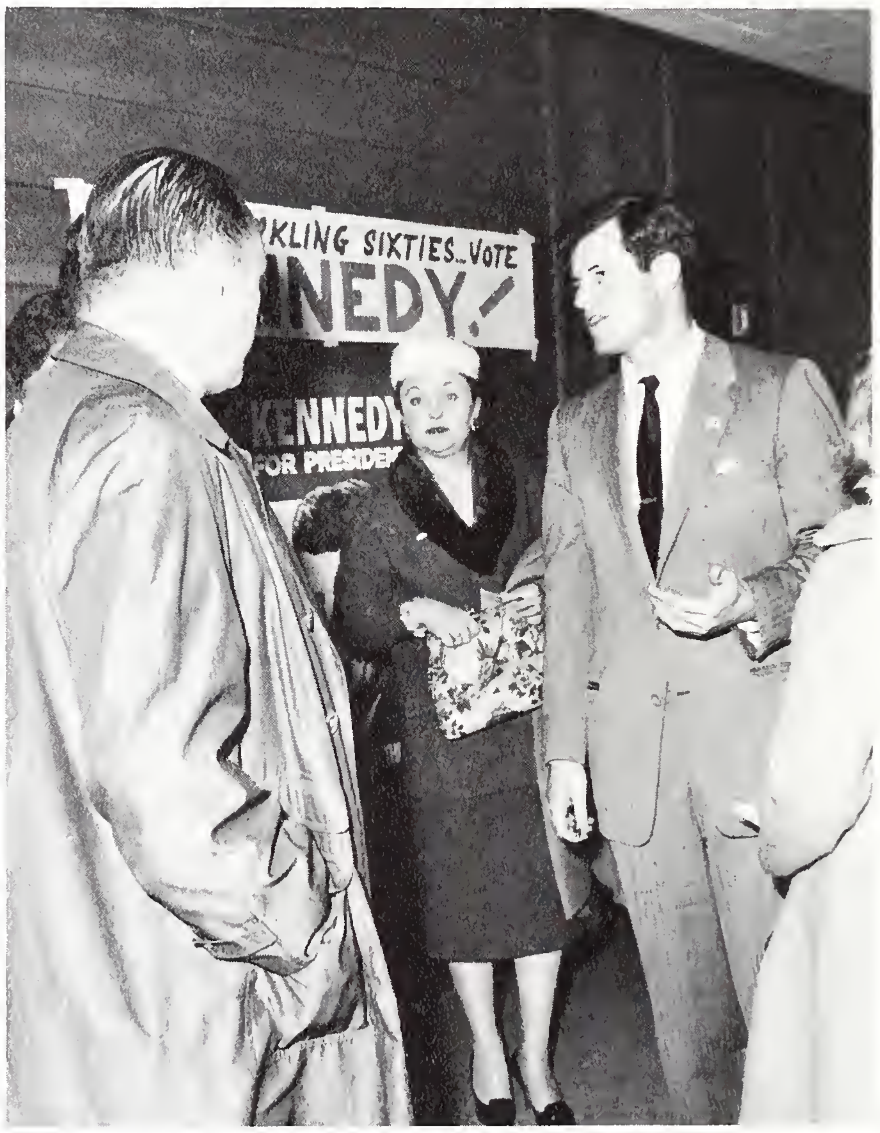
The weather grew colder as the season grew longer.

The national election took on added color at MSC, with the holding of a mock election just prior to the actual voting. The students accurately predicted the outcome of the state's gubernatorial race, giving Donald Nutter a overwhelming majority over Paul Cannon, but they failed to recognize the trends of the nation in the presidential campaign, as they hypothetically elected Dick Nixon. Judging from the state budget cut to education, perhaps the students made a wrong choice in the gubernatorial contest also. The students also kept the polls busy on other issues, as they elected queens, voted on a new winter quarter holiday, and chose their student leaders for the coming year.



The President's brother stopped at MSC during the campaign.

Voting during MSC's mock election.

The dedication of the plaque honoring those MSC football players who died in WWII.

The ever-popular winter parties and the basketball games helped break up the grey days of winter quarter, but the students also took time out for more serious things. Religious Emphasis Week found the students exploring theology through talks by leading ministers from throughout the nation. The Christmas Sing saw more than 1700 students participating, with every living group on campus represented with singing groups. Perhaps the biggest topic brought before the students Winter Quarter was the budget cut controversy, as coffee break conversations turned into governmental debates. The Exponent became one of the state's most comprehensive news gathers concerning the University System's plight, and President Renne made headlines with his stand on the matter.

Student activities, the lifeblood of a college or university. To some extracurricular participation means leadership, to others it is just helping on the Exponent or the Farmer. Whatever the role played, committee member or president, the job done is an important one. Without these activities there would be no newspaper, no yearbook, or anything else that is associated with college life. Along with the parties and once-a-year events that come to a college, there are the jobs that are the same day in and day out, jobs that seem to be and are drudgery, but without them many of the things that are enjoyed by the students would never come about. Dances would have no decorations, intramural sports would never be played, and student government would never function.

One of the REW displays.

One of the seminars held during Religious Emphasis Week.

Outside entertainment also came to MSC during the year. Mahalia Jackson, famed Gospel singer, sang at the fieldhouse, and the Harlem Globetrotters played one of basketball's "World Series" games at MSC. The Hi Lo's put on a performance, and Si Zentner and Claude Gorden brought their bands to MSC for the Junior Prom and Homecoming.

One of MSC's most colorful events is the International Ball.

Chris Dunlap is named "Pi Queen."

Jim Edwards, champion pie eater.

Charity plays a big part in the social life of MSC. "Pi Week", sponsored by the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, gained $2,000 for the March of Dimes, and the World University Service earned money for schools the world over with the "Ugly Man" contest, and the spring car wash.

Pre-dance decorating.

Many hours of work for several hours of fun.

MSC lives up to its name "Cow College" during Spring Quarter, when the Intercollegiate rodeo is held in the fieldhouse, and the campus turns cowboy for the weekend. Blue jeans, boots, and wrangler hats turn the student body into a sea of ranchers, as the students devote a weekend to their western heritage. The fraternities and sororities decorate truck beds with scenes depicting western history, and the rodeo parade relives the old west.

Linda Burns is chosen Ski Queen.

Taking advantage of the Gallatin Valley's heavy snowfall, many of the students headed for the ski hill, and left their mark on the campus during the Ski Carnival. Linda Burns was chosen to reign over the festivities, and the intramural ski races proved to be as exciting as ever.

The televising of the Bobcat-Gonzaga game.

Presenting everything from Greek tragedy to fantasy, the drama department has provided the school with the highest quality stage entertainment. Visiting troupes such as the Masquers from MSU also gave outstanding performances for the student body. Mixing grease paint with hard work, the drama students filled their many and varied roles in true Broadway style.

In the Blood Drawing registration line.

The annual Red Cross Blood Drawing finds MSC's students trying to outgive their counterparts at MSU, in the intrastate contest. A three-day event, the drawing is held in the SUB, and handles over 200 students a day. Intra-school competition is also high, as the ROTC departments, the fraternities and sororities, and other organizations compete against each other. The competition is on a percentage basis, and trophies are awarded to the winners.

One student finds that giving blood isn't so unpleasant after all.

One of the faculty joins in a song for charity.

The centerpiece of the Military Ball.

Nuber catches one during "Buck Night."

Each individual group on campus has its "big" function, the one event that they consider the highlight of the year's activities. Many times this event is important to the entire school, others are only important to the group itself. Of the all-school functions, the Military Ball is one of the biggest. Honoring the ROTC department, the theme this year was centered around freedom, and the Statue of Liberty was the theme of the decorations.

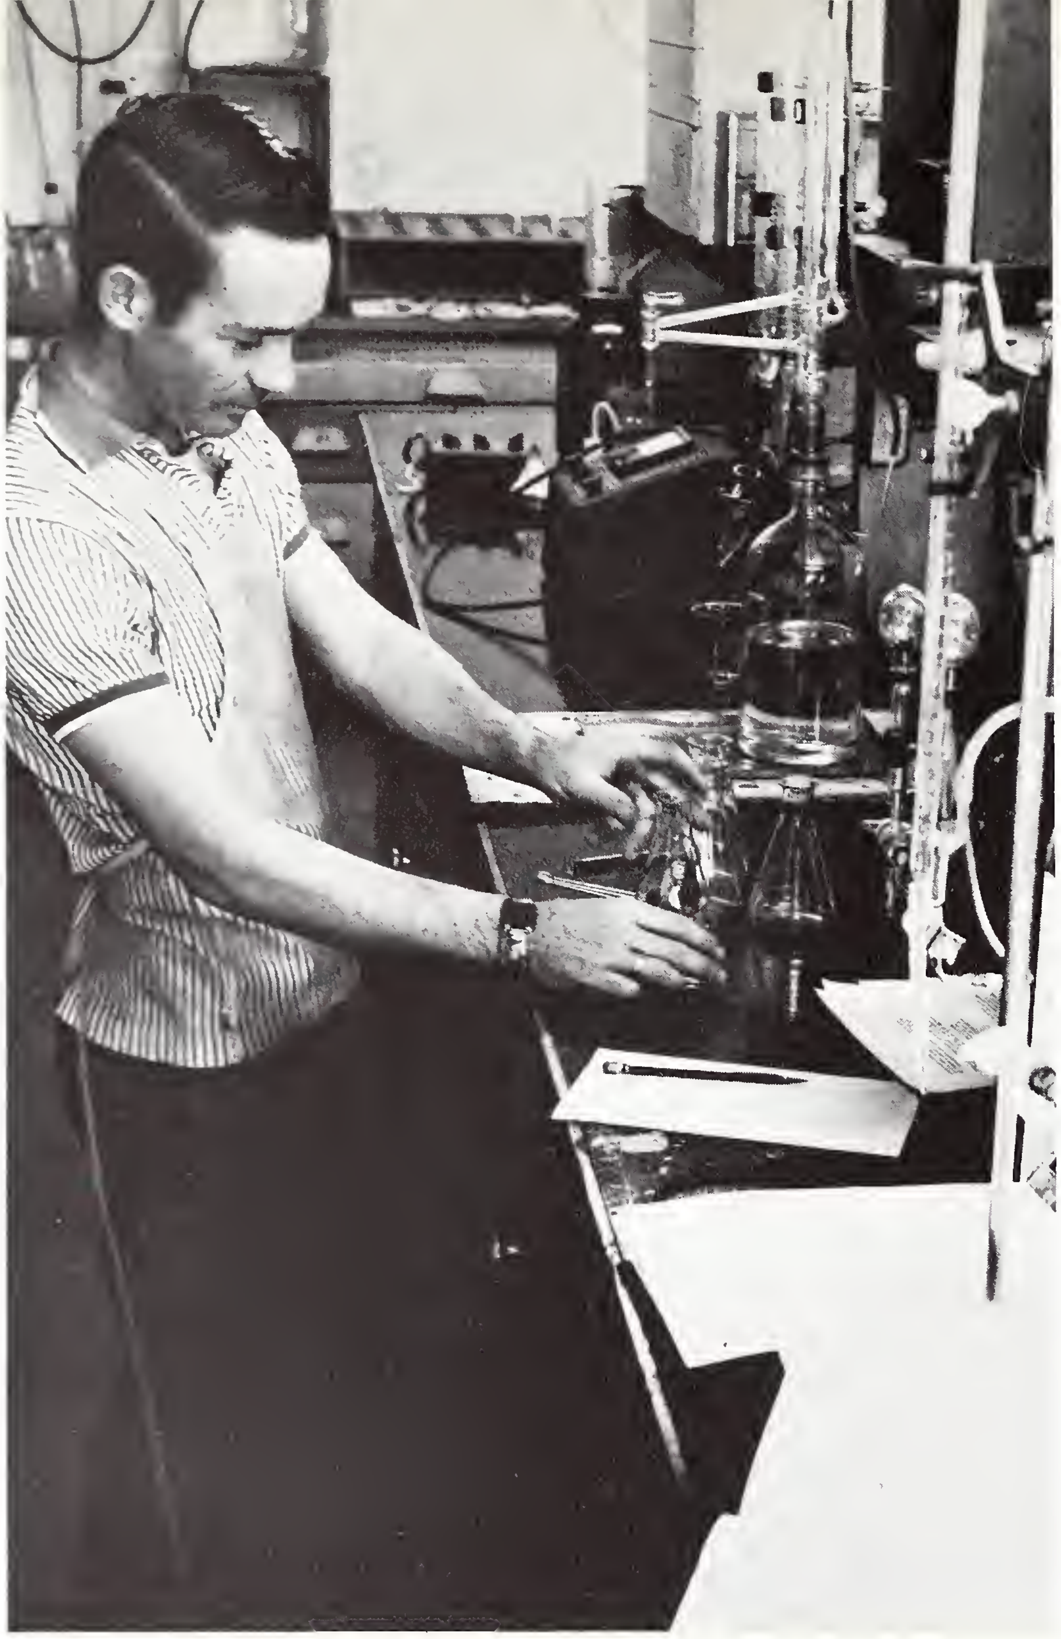
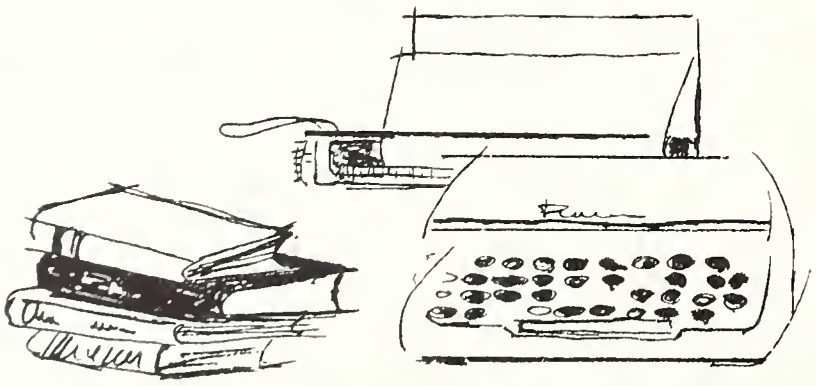
Quarter — spring parties.

Events. Big events, little events, all sizes, shapes and descriptions. Yet to those that are responsible for, or take part in them they are the major happening that is going on. The satisfaction of working for something with others, the enjoyment of taking part in an event, the relief when something is finally over, these are not things that can be put on paper, they inhabit memory only.

The intercollegiate rodeo puts the cowboy spirit into MSC.





ACADEMICS

REGISTRAR'S OFFICE

ADMINISTRATION

There is one quality that a college must possess before it can be termed a successful institution of higher learning. That quality is an efficient administration, both at the faculty and student level. Without skilled leadership at these levels disorganization would soon serve to destroy the purpose of the school. In using this quality as a yardstick, MSC is measured as a success.

Montana State College is now enjoying its seventeenth year under the strong and able leadership of Dr. R. R. Renne. Since his term in office began many improvements have come to our campus. The enrollment has more than doubled and many new buildings have made their appearances. But more than this, Dr. Renne, through his foresight and competent guidance, has given Montana State College that academic air and individual character which identify an outstanding institution.

Student Administration

Dean Glynn

Due to his ever present sense of fairness and his efficient and responsible handling of any problem, Val Glynn has enjoyed ever increasing popularity and respect in his post as Dean of Students. Giving aid and counsel to students and faculty and working closely with all phases of student government are among the duties which Dean Glynn carries out with alacrity and diplomacy.

What ARE we going to do with that boy?

Dean Brown

As Dean, advisor, counselor, and friend of the women students at Montana State College for the past eight years, Esther Brown has displayed that diplomacy and efficiency which make her one of the outstanding administrators on our campus. She is always willing to lend a hand in any problem, and her patience and understanding have helped more than one student become adjusted to college life.

Administrative Officers

The second in command, Dean P. C. Gaines keeps the affairs of the College running smoothly in the absence of President Renne. A powerful voice in the administration, Dean Gaines has shown his capabilities as both an advisor and a leader by his actions during the budget crisis, and during the regular course of the school year.

In every functioning institution there are those who must give of their time and services behind the scenes without much recognition to ensure that everything will be run smoothly and efficiently. So it is with many of our administrative officers who work tirelessly to maintain records and files, coordinate the many school facilities, initiate policies and procedures, and supervise the various campus offices. The fruits of their work can be seen every day at Montana State College in the skillful organization, management and coordination of the several school-affiliated services.

Board of Education

Organized to ensure the preservation and advancement of higher education in Montana the Board of Trustees forms a liason between state government and college administration and provides for efficient and smooth running of the college. This board is composed of the State Board of Education and three local College Board members. The Board is designed primarily for the purpose of instituting new policies, setting limitations, outlining procedure, and in general, providing for the growth and advancement of Montana State College.

Despite our great technological advances in the past decade, man realizes an everpressing need for more efficient and productive techniques of raising food to supply the growing populations of the present and of the future. Originally Montana State College, being a land grant college, was an agricultural school and has continued to the present to be one of the leading agricultural research and teaching institutions in the nation. Concerned primarily with the education of future agriculturists, the School of Agriculture employs the most modern methods and techniques in their educational program.

EDUCATION

To impart knowledge is one of the greatest attributes of man. The gift of learning is enriched by those who instruct and supervise, giving mankind the incentive to further his knowledge not only of the known but to reach out and unlock the mysteries of all things. While education does not end with formal schooling, the men and women of the teaching profession are responsible for the enlightenment of their pupils in basic knowledge, giving them the first key to the many doors of wisdom.

Builder, planner, designer, responsible for the world's technology — the realm of the engineer. Be it the man behind the transit at a building site, or the man in the research laboratory with sliderule in hand, the future of the world is being crystalized by them. The gratitude of the world for these men is only offset by the debt that the engineers have to mankind. When the transit and sliderule are put away, and the laboratory door is locked, the wheels of the world will stop turning. True, the world will not end, but statis quo in the development of physical assets would lead to world degradation.

Creativness, the searching of man's pool of knowledge, bringing forth the new. Be it physical things that are created, or the manifestation of man's emotions as shown on canvas, they are unveiled for the first time. ASMSC Officers

The president and vice president of the Associated Students of Montana State College are elected to office via an all-school election held during Spring Quarter each year. ASMSC's secretary is chosen by the elected senate members from written applications submitted to the senate. The president presides over all senate meetings, and coordinates the formulation of plans of action concerning student affairs. Overseeing the various committees of student senate is the job of ASMSC's vice president. All correspondence is handled by the secretary, as well as the keeping of the minutes of the senate meetings.

Student Senate

Also elected during Spring Quarter's general election are the commissioners of student senate. These eleven men and women represent the major areas of student interest on campus. They endeavor to keep the school informed as to the affairs of their respective areas by means of detailed reports presented at the weekly meetings of the senate. It is through the medium of student commissioners that the goal of active student participation in school affairs concerning the administration and others is achieved.

It is the ayes and no's of the student senate which decide the fate of budgets, the plans of various groups, and student action to be taken on major issues concerning the entire school. Not only does senate act as as a judge, but it also works in the role of an adviser to organizations with problems that require the advice of a group who can ascertain the basic needs at hand. Senate also maintains school spirit with its Traditions Board which keeps the time worn traditions of the school alive.

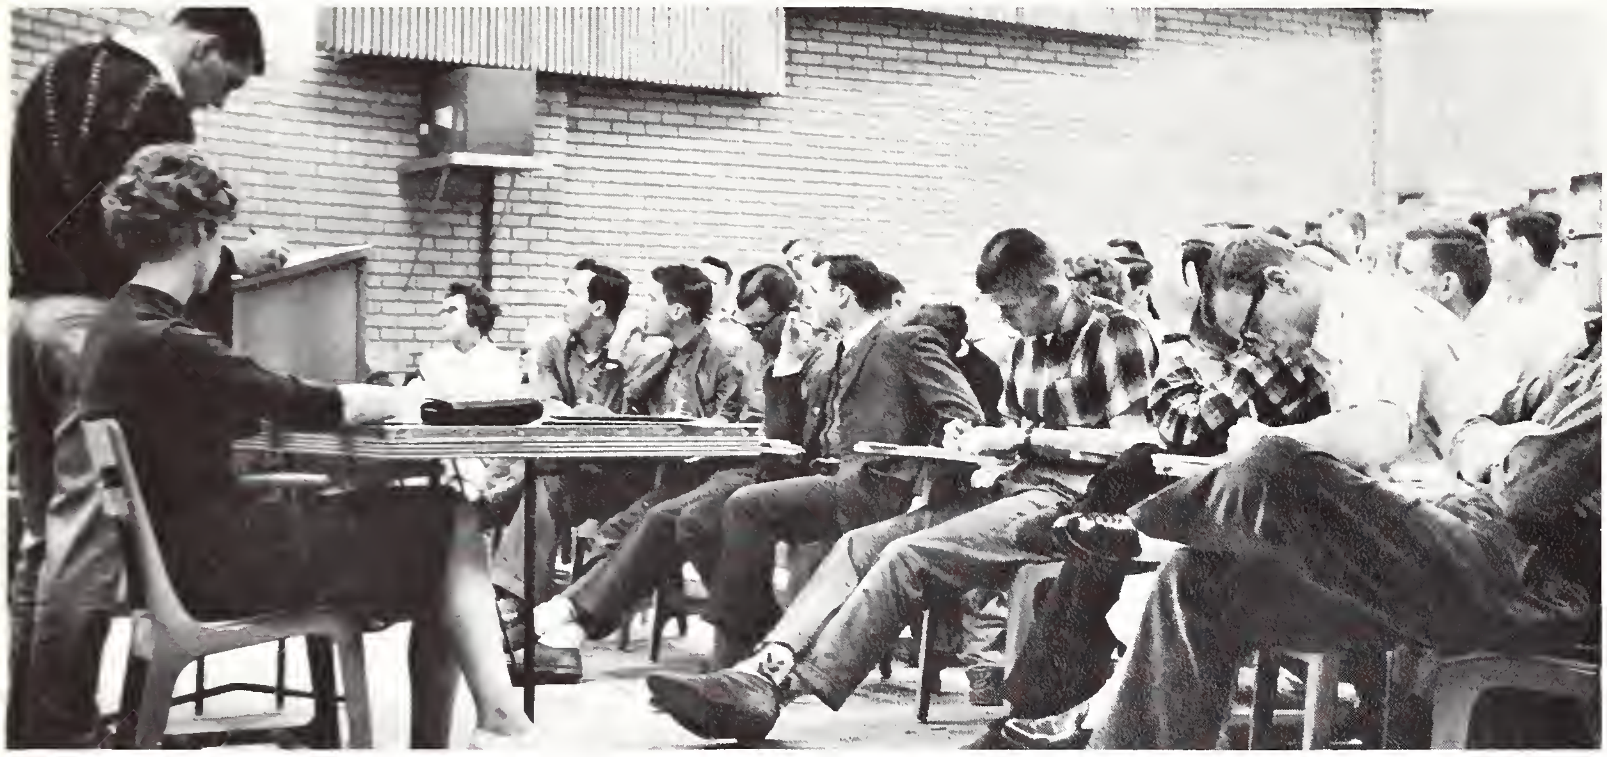
Student Senate in action



"And furthermore, if this budget passes there won't be a student body!"

Let's see now, just what's this guy Nutter trying to do?

Meetings, Presidents Roundtable, Leadership workshop, and committee meetings provide briefing sessions for these student leaders. With this vast accumulation of facts Student Senate guided the Associated Students through a most eventful and challenging year.

Senate meetings are the subject of deep concern to those whose activities are directly concerned.

Keeping up with the business of Student Senate can be difficult at times.

Associated Women Students

Marge Griffin
President

The voice of Montana State's coeds, the Associated Women Students association is made up of all members of the fair sex who are attending MSC. The executive board, which controls and directs AWS is made up of seven members who are elected by the group. Among the activities sponsored by AWS are: the Chinese Auction, the big-little sister program, the junior-senior banquet, and Women's Day.

Marge calls the meetings to order, and the business of the Associated Women Students is decided on by the group.

One of the bigger functions sponsored by AWS, the Chinese Auction provides money for scholarships for needy individuals.

Board of Publications

The Board of Publications is the administrative body which advises the student publications at M.S.C. The board has the responsibility to see that every publication complies with the Constitution of the Board of Publications. The Commissioner of Publications, who is elected in an all school election, serves as chairman of the board, and also represents the board on the Student Senate. Also, all editors, business managers, and faculty advisers of Montana State publications serve as members on the board.

MSC 6 NDU 6

The Cats found the North Dakota Sioux tough going, as they took on the NDS eleven in their first outing of the season. Smarting from a defeat at the hands of Montana State University, the Siouz took out their anger on MSC, holding the Bobcats to a 6-6 tie.

Butch Bacon picks up yardage the hard way, 3 yards in the air, and 2 on the ground.

Quarterback Dave Alt receives instructions from Agocs and Schilling in planning touchdown strategy.

MSC 14 S. D. 20

The Bobcats journeyed to South Dakota University for their second game of the season, and came back with a 20-14 loss. The Jackrabbits jumped to a 3 touchdown lead in the first half, and held off the Bobcat's second half victory attempt.

Fullback Mark Dasinger runs interference as Butch Bacon lugs the pigskin for a substantial gain.

MSC 3 Wichita 14

Wichita's Shockers broke MSC's home game win streak, as they only allowed the Bobcats a field goal, while scoring two touchdowns themselves. The first meeting of the two schools, the game found the Shockers dominating the Bobcats in all departments.

MSC 22 Cal Poly 18

The Bobcats won their first game of the season on foreign ground, as they defeated the ill-fated Cal Poly team at San Louis Obispo. The Cats combined their running and passing attack to stop the Mustangs, as they mastered the Wing-T formation.

Quarterback Harry Lopsonski falls on a fumble while Tom Molen comes in to assist.

Molen finds ISC's line tough to crack.

MSC 26 NDS 14

Winding up their home game schedule against North Dakota State, the Bobcats fought the Bison in freezing weather, grinding out a 26-14 victory. MSC's passing attack saved the game, as the Cats scored three of their touchdowns via the aerial route.

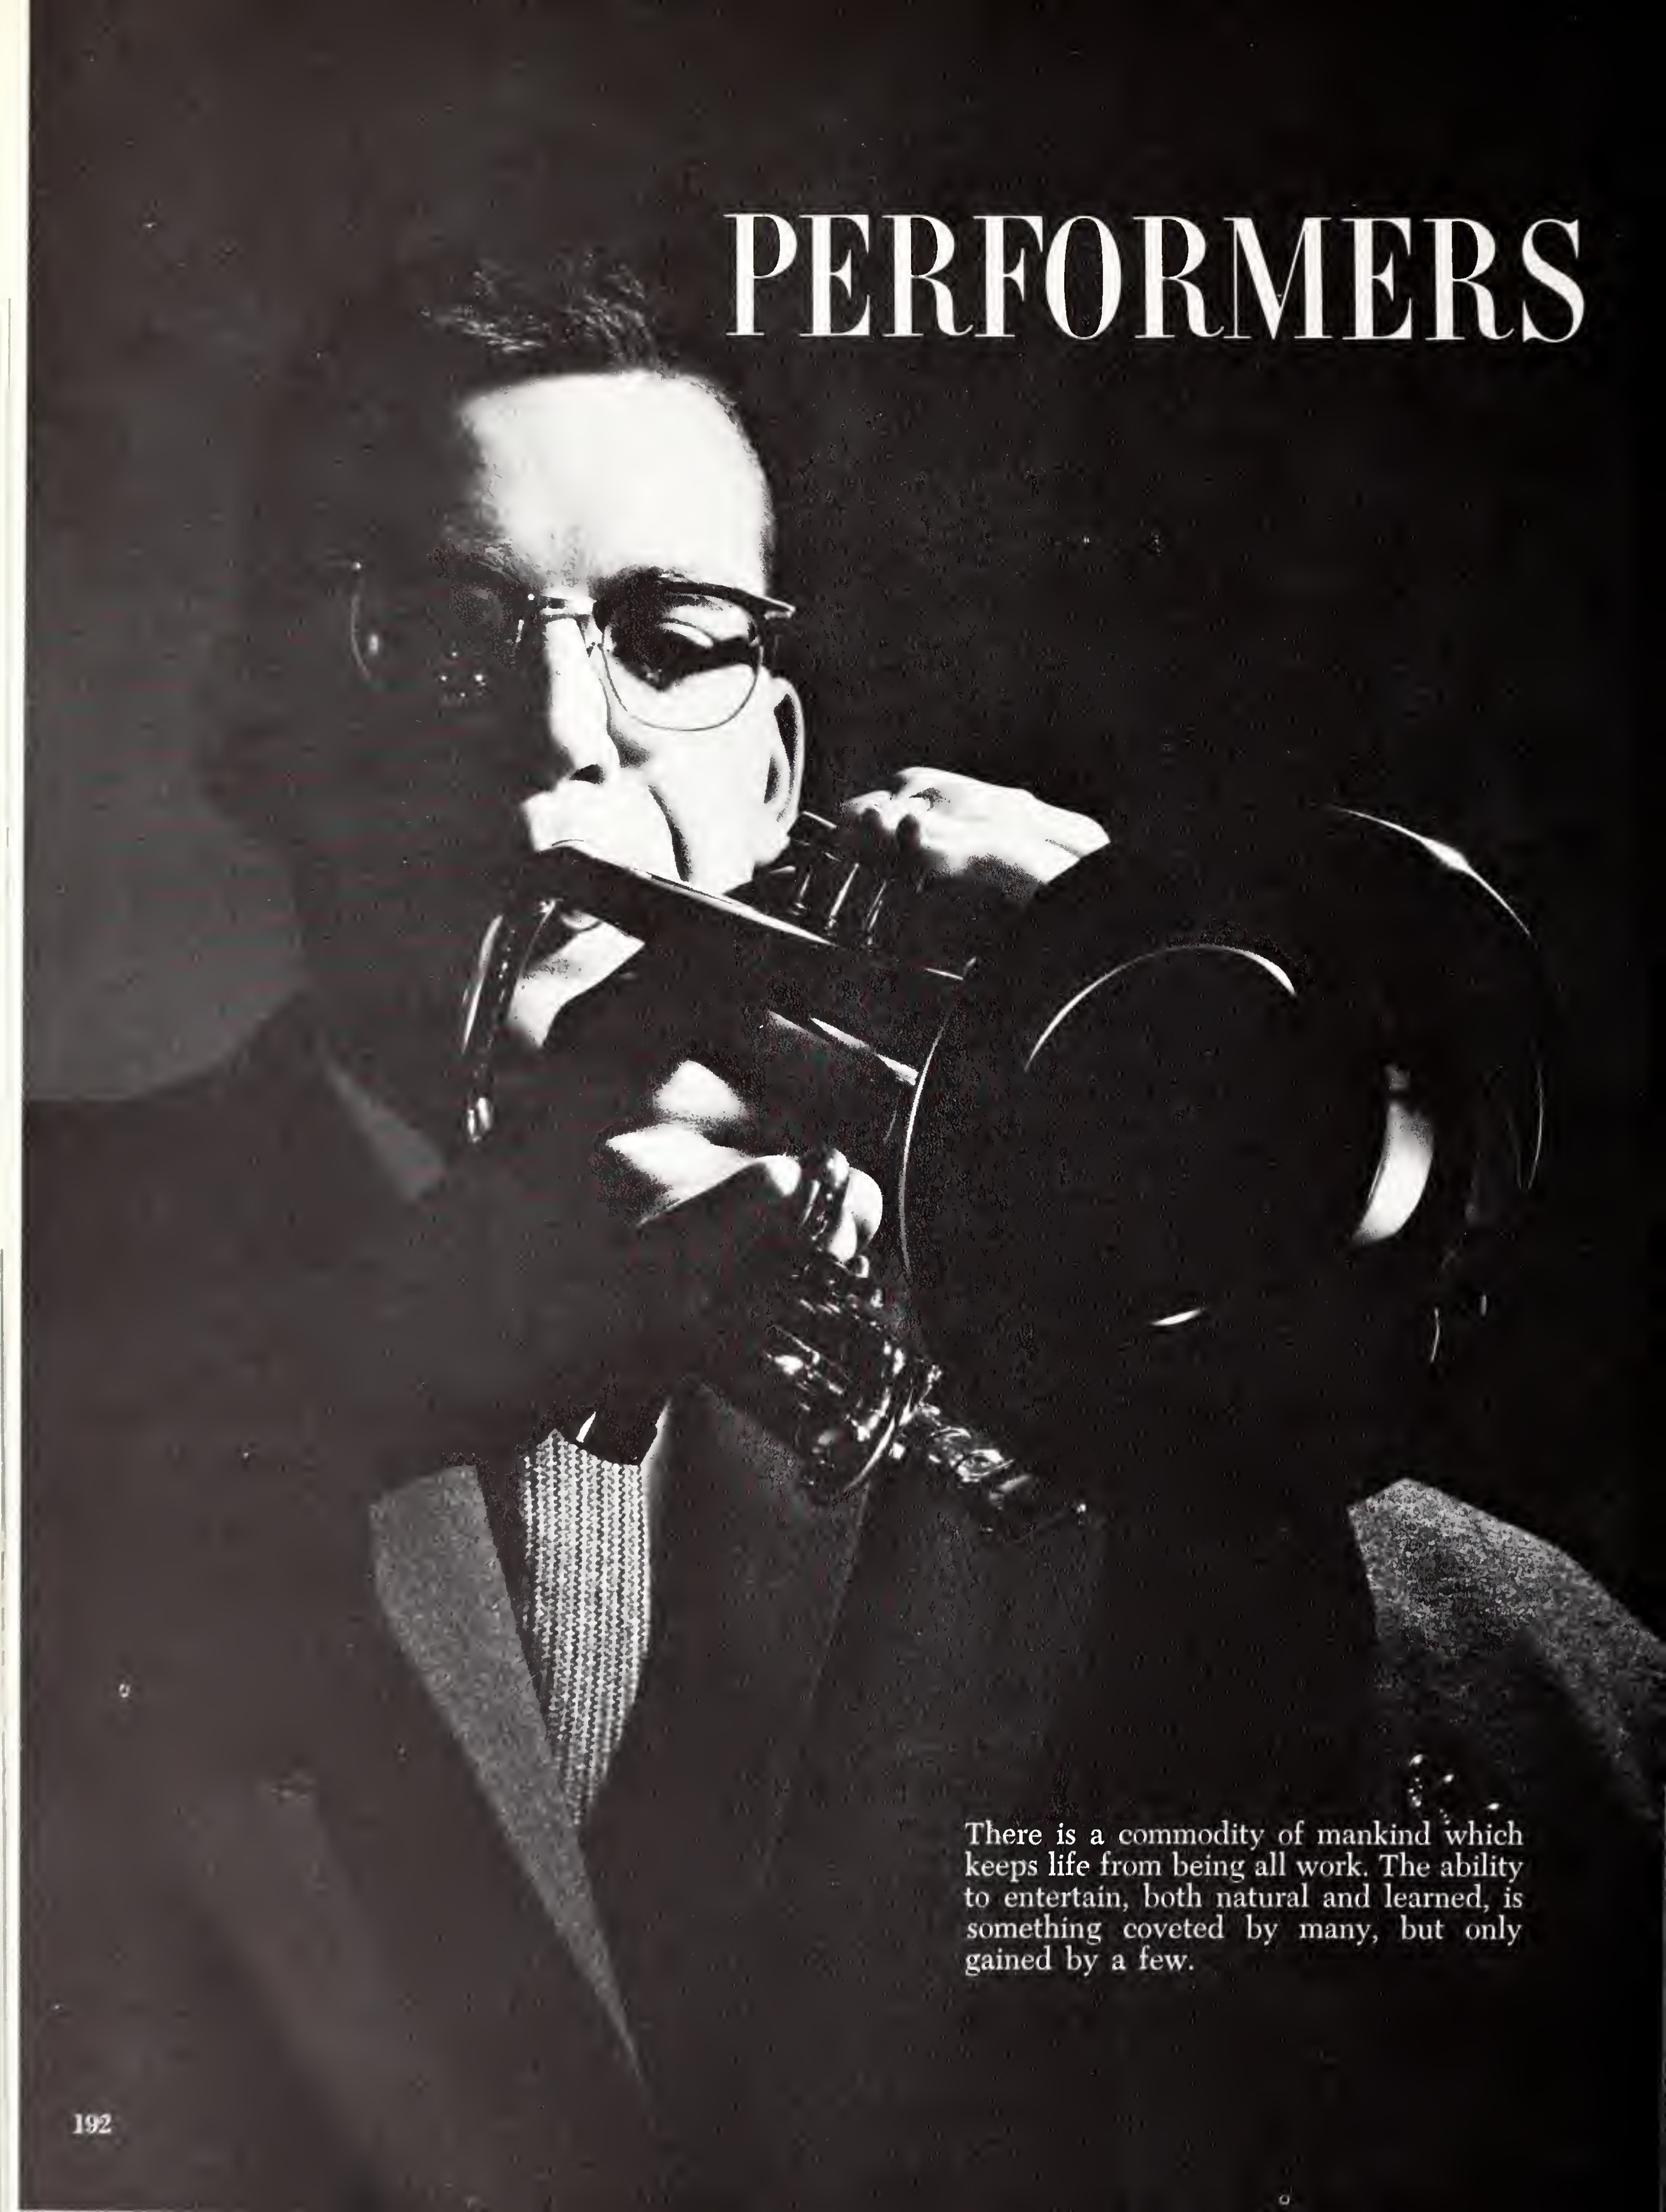
PERFORMERS



There is a commodity of mankind which keeps life from being all work. The ability to entertain, both natural and learned, is something coveted by many, but only gained by a few.

Drama

MSC'c Dramatic Arts department displayed a versitility this year which belies the absence of a school of drama on campus. In staging plays ranging from Greek tragedy to modern war stories, the theatre group provided the students with a professional brand of stage entertainment. The drama department also hosted the drama festival, which gave students a chance to compare MSC with other schools in the production of plays.

Drama

The struggle of man against a superior being was portrayed in "Prometheus Bound", which plotted man against the Greek God Zeus. Played by Carl Smith, Prometheus told of the injustice dealt him by Zeus, and pleaded the cause of mankind to all who would listen to him. The resolution of the tragedy ends on a note of hope for mankind even though Prometheus is destroyed.

The placing of Prometheus on the rock is questioned by one of his many visitors.

The maiden Io tells her story to Prometheus and the sea nymphs.

Zeus's messenger torments Prometheus, and reminds him of his fate.

The rock crumbles, but yet man has won over the gods in angering them to the point of destruction.

Moving into a lighter vein of stage production, the drama department presented the political comedy "Two Blind Mice". In lampooning the problems of a large government, the actors portrayed an out-of-the way governmental agency which was forgotten, but never-the-less still supported with federal funds.

Government official Larry Daw gives the word.

Federal investigators begin to discover the mistake.

The office is exposed, and its fate is decided.

Drama

During the school year, the drama department presents many plays which provide entertainment for all who attend. The entire cast and stage crew for each play is picked from members of the Student Body. Much time and work is put into these performances, and are greatly enjoyed by the audiences.

Coney is questioned as to how his friend was killed.

A combat scene from "The Home of the Brave."

The very emotional and moving war drama, "The Home of the Brave", showed many exciting and stirring scenes. Coney, a Jew who faced many decisions during the duration of the play, was portrayed by Larry Daw, and Mingo, a symbol of hope in the play, was portrayed by George Hageman.

Marching Band

Dressed in their traditional blue and gold uniforms, the Bobcat Marching Band has played the fight songs of Montana State since the day the Bobcat football team first took the field. Their half-time formations have become standard entertainment for MSC's football fans.

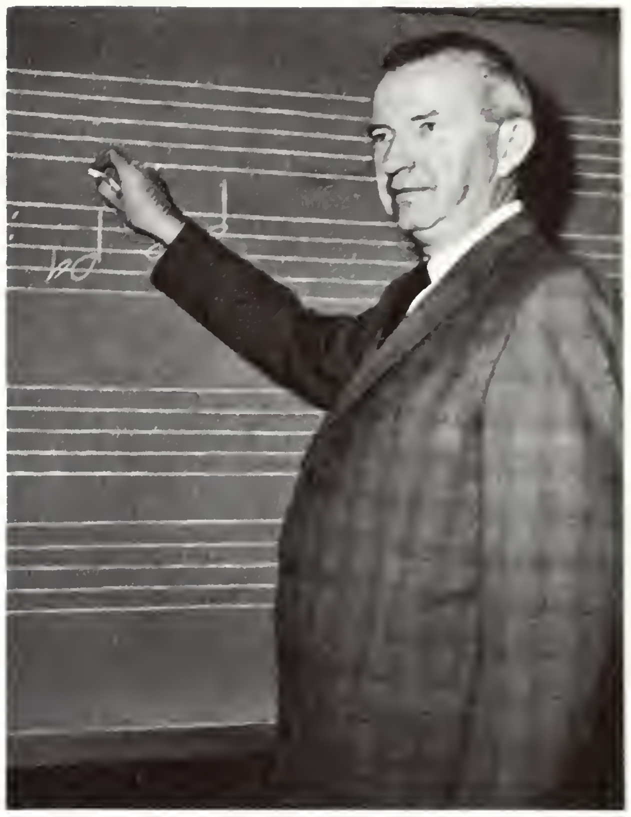
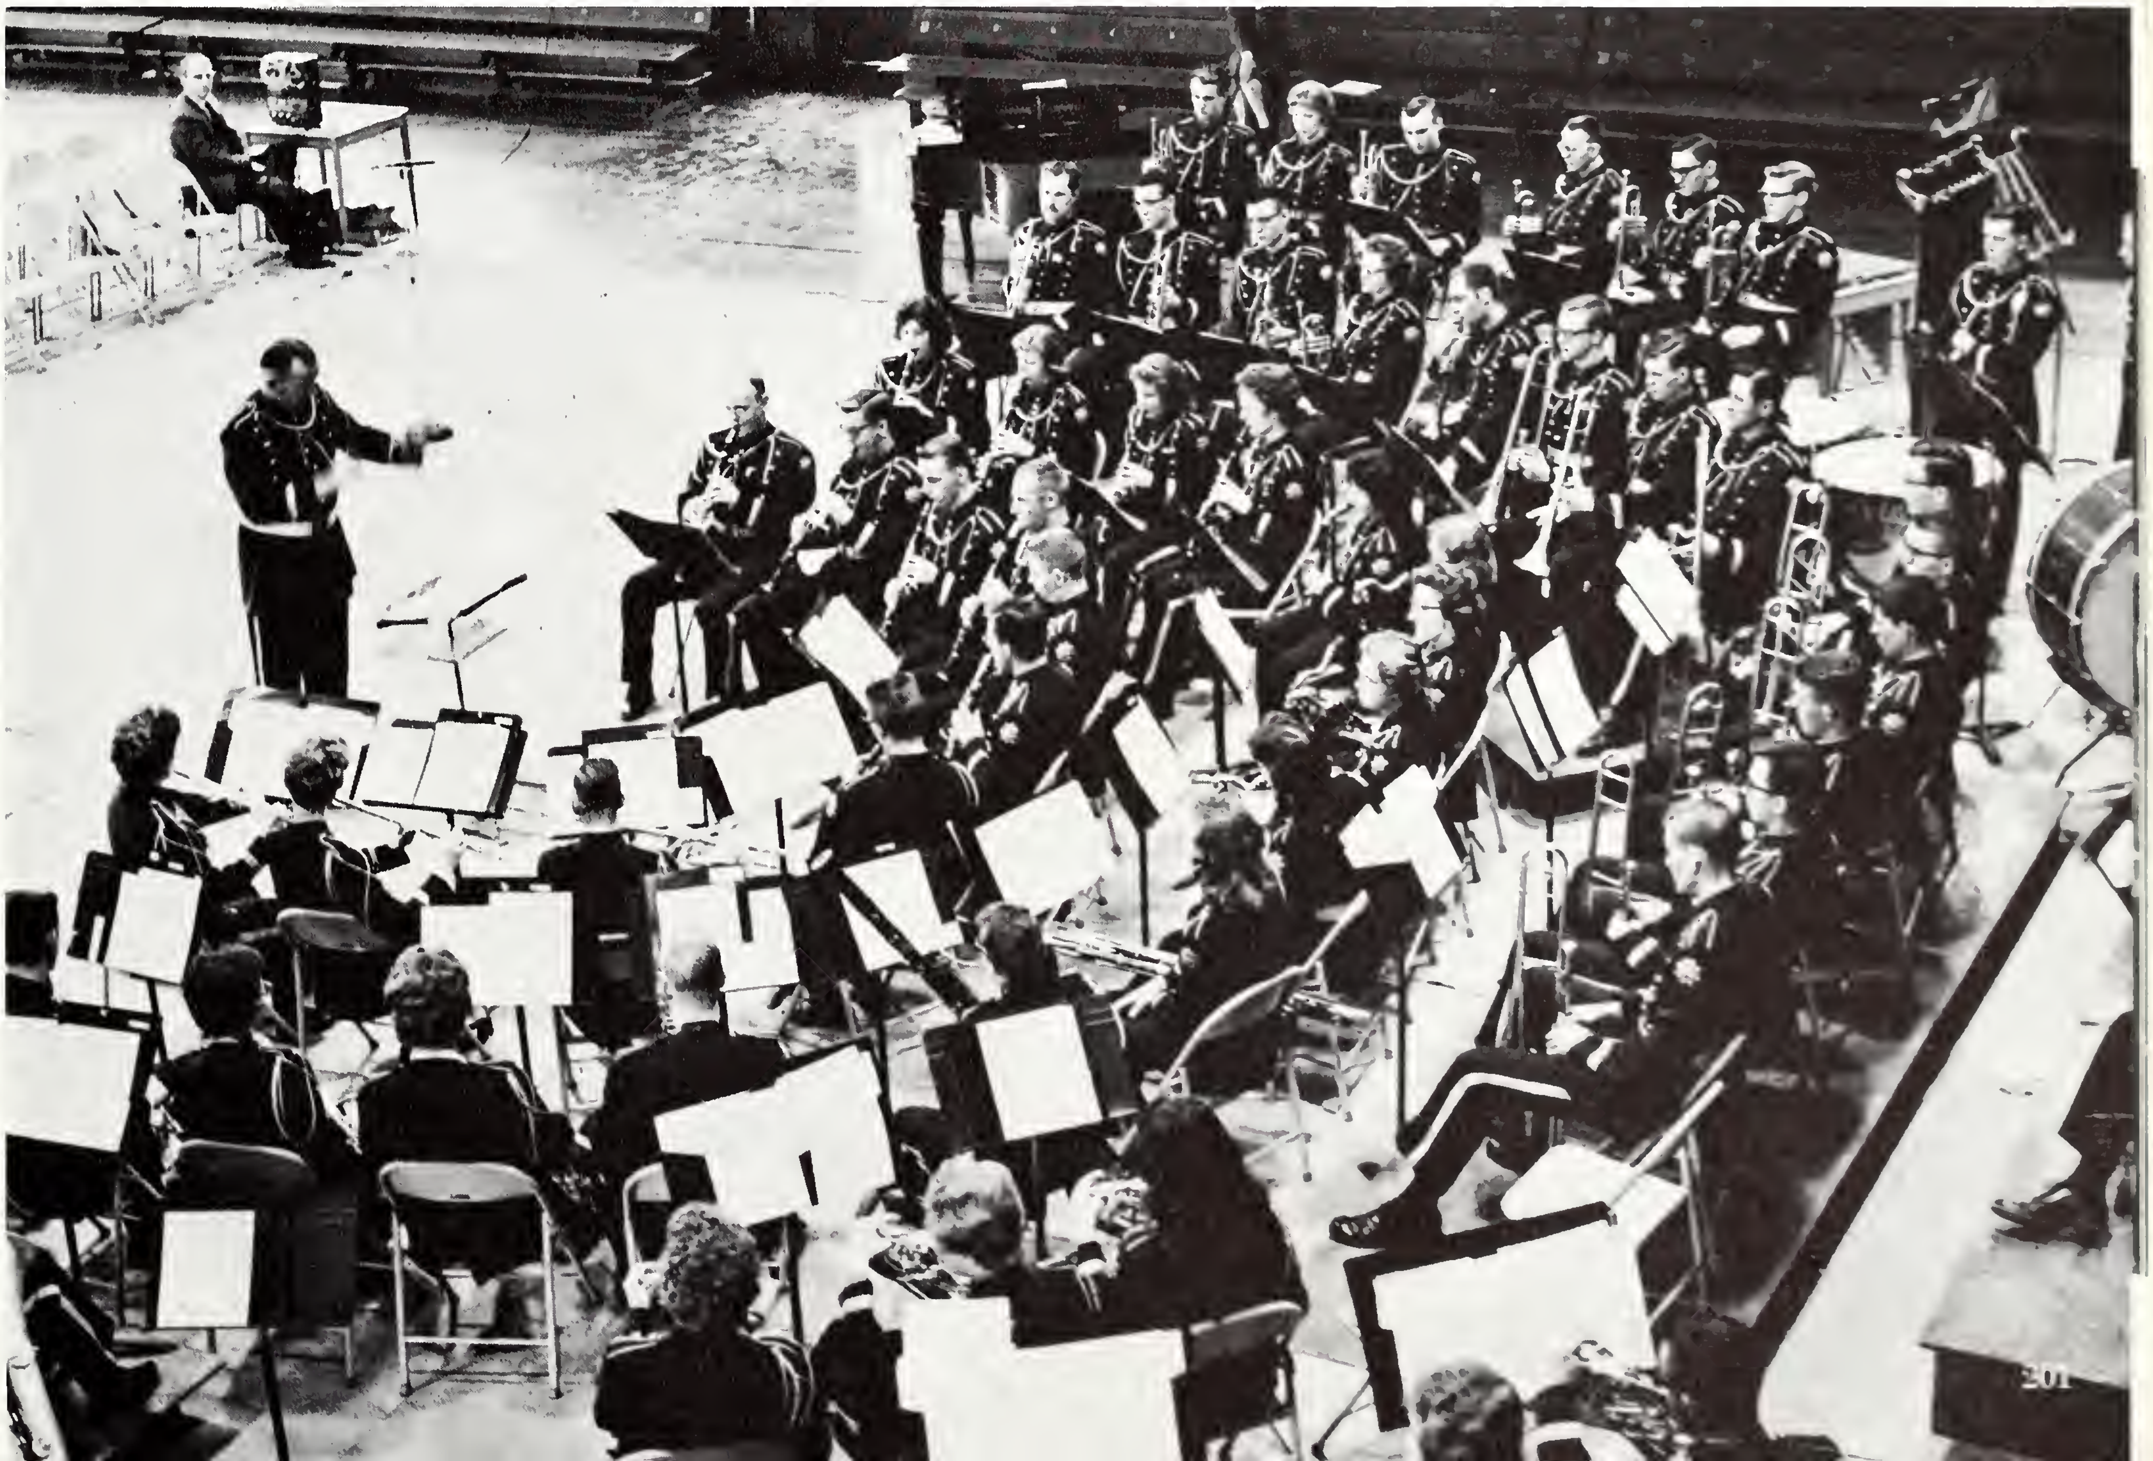
Symphonic Band

Playing in the classical and semi-classical vein, the Symphonic Band gives polish to the music of MSC's performers, adding to the enjoyment of music lovers.



Edmund Sedivy, Director



Mr. Sedivy leads the Symphonic Band during the all-school music assembly.

Symphonettes

Creech Reynolds. Orchestra Director

Comprised of students, faculty members, and interested Bozeman townfolk, the MSC Symphonic Orchestra has brought the music of the masters to campus. Playing arrangements by Bach, Wagner, and Beetoven, and including age-old folk songs such as "Greensleeves", the Orchestra truly stands at the head of the College's musical offerings.

Mr. Reynolds leads the Orchestra during all-school music assembly.

Individual Performers

There are those who are members of many groups, and who are also individual entertainment in themselves. The soloists, the folk singers, the dance bands, and the duets, all of these people are performers in their own right. To perform with a large group is one thing, to stand in front of an audience by yourself is another.

Connie Koski was featured at many functions.

HONORARIES

For those that excell there must be recognition, recognition by others of individual accomplishments, be they athletic, scholastic, or extracurricular. Proud may be the man of whom others say, "All honor to his name".

Les Buffons

Bob Benner

Les Buffons is a senior mens scholastic-social honorary fraternity existing on the Montana State College campus since 1900. The "Buffs" this year again authored and distributed the "College Men's Guide to Freshmen Women", perhaps the most utilized of all campus publications. Also, two new fifty-star flags were presented to the college and presently hang in the fieldhouse. Activities include a formal banquet, formal dance and weekly meetings.

Sabre Air Command

Jon Goodykoontz, President

The Sabre Air Command, directly under Arnold Air Society, serves to enlighten the ideals and build corps spirit of the basic air science cadets. The 'Command', with the aid of the advanced cadets, acts as a separate unit on the drill field and during parades. For community service, Sabre Air Command cadets usher for local churches and on campus during high school week. The Members of this honorary organization receive valuable insight into the functions and operations of the United States Air Force.

GREEKS

Greeks!!! The dream of many a boy and girl. Here you find the fun, the studying, the responsibility, the friendship of a college concentrated in one group. On the MSC campus there is competition and rivalry between the Greek organizations, but there is a closeness and friendship, too. The ten national fraternities vie with each other for honors in intramural sports; the six national sororities struggle among themselves for top honors in the scholastic division; they compete with each other for the top "rushees". But this competition is on a friendly basis. The Greeks on the MSC campus play a very important part in the college life of every student, whether Greek or Independent.

This year the members of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority made exciting plans for a new house. With the architect's plans completed, the girls looked forward to the actual building. In the meantime, they continued their many annual functions — among them, the selection of Duane Boe as "Alpha Gam Man" at their annual winter party. Lovely Barbara O'Neil was crowned Homecoming Queen as the AGD candidate for the honor.

The new AGR house stands proudly as the fulfillment of the dreams of alumni, actives and pledges of Alpha Delta. The year's high point found AGR's dedicating their house to continued development of Agricultural Science. Turning from the house we see AGR's holding leading positions in many extra-curricular activities. Scholastically, Alpha Delta captured top honors for a four year average among AGR chapters throughout the nation. From the Pink Rose Formal to an early-morning "dorm bust" and "scrambled egg fry" with the Lambda Chi's, AGR's were socially active.

The Delta Sigs experienced their greatest gain in membership since their founding five short years ago. They have become prominently established with the election of Arjay Godston as Student Body President and Phil Schneider as Commissioner of Athletics. For the second consecutive year the Delta Sigs captured King of the Hill honors with Tom Sawyer as their candidate. Charlotte Chandler reigned as Dream Girl for the year and Duane Rubadeau became their new chapter supervisor. The Delta Sigs, in collaboration with the Jaycees, carried out their annual Easter egg hunt for the children of Bozeman.

Once again the Kappa Sigs managed to successfully mix scholarship and activities placing high in grades and showing leadership and participation in many aspects of campus life. They are proud to claim presidents of IFC, two honoraries, and two student religious groups. Added to these were two representatives in Septemviri, the Fieldhouse Commissioner, and a strong active membership in other campus groups. On the lighter side, within the house, they had the formation of the TFC, election of the GFO, and Icard, the only student to wear built in spats and tails to class. The highlight of the winter social season was the crowning of Deann Wright as Stardust Girl at the elaborately decorated Stardust Ball.

A solid and united group, the Lambda Chis are noted for their scholarship and campus activities. Fun loving, too, they yearly sponsor their famous Yukon Days for which they grow beards to be shaven by their razor wielding dates. Early morning dorm busts with the AGR's exciting springtime picnics, and their annual White Rose Formal further complement the lively activities of these pleasant and congenial men.

The Phi Sigs started off their second year in their new home. The big event Fall Quarter was the crowning of the Moonlight Girl, Karen Tobin, at the annual Moonlight Ball. Winter Quarter included a banquet honoring all the housemothers on campus. Socially, these men were busy with firesides, a Christmas party, and exchange dinners and coffee hours. The Phi Sigs also have many activities as their members are present in the Student Senate, on Student-Faculty Committees, on WUS committees, and the Blood Drawing Committee.

With the coming of winter, the touring bus "Miss Carriage" was brought to a halt, but not so with the fraternity men who run her. With the selection of Chris Dunlap as Pi Week Queen to rule over the annual Pi Week for the March of Dimes, they plunged into the social season. More royalty is chosen Spring Quarter when the Pi Kaps select their Dream Girl of Pi Kappa Alpha. With the ending of the school term for 1961, the fraternity brothers may look back and say with pride, "another job well done."

Sigma Alpha Epsilon once again proved itself one of the big powers on campus in all around activities. This was not only important to the Fraternity brothers, but also was of great importance to the "Little Sister of Minerva" who through their interest in Sigma Alpha Epsilon became coordinated with them here at M.S.C. two years ago. Once again the Pajama dance, and the Sig Alph Olympics were enjoyed by nearly everyone here at MSC.

The white cross has again been active on every part of the MSC campus. From sports to Student Senate the Sigs have made themselves known with the readiness for participation. As a highlight of autumn quarter the Sigs held their annual Christmas Party for kids (as the party commenced we weren't sure just who the guests were and who the hosts were). The annual Sigma Chi-Pi Phi pledge snowball fight was cancelled because of a noticable lack of snow but they got together and had a ball anyway. As a final note, the Sigs are now preparing for the construction of their new home to replace the former house at 722 Wilson.

Sigma Nu is growing with MSC, and its members have had much to do with the interests of both. The All-Sorority Tea, and the Follies demonstrate the social interests of the Sigma Nu's, and with men leading assisting in Homecoming, WUS, High School Week, and Student Senate, the leadership qualities of the men of Sigma Nu are shown.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Bruce Kennedy
President

The Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, newest on the hill, started the year off in high fashion by taking first in the annual Homecoming parade. Their next function was the annual Diamond Princess formal and their royalty for this year is Jeanette Boyd. During winter and spring quarters their biggest job is the one of becoming an active chapter in the Fraternity of Sigma Phi Epsilon. They have worked hard to gain this distinction and we believe they justly deserve it.

Greeks in Action

Homecoming house decorations run into long hours of work.

To many the world of the Greek initiate means only secret grips, paddles, and large chapter houses. Such is not the case. The purpose of the fraternity world is brotherhood, not the alienation of individuals by the practice of immature harassment which has by and large died out. Friendships of lifelong duration are formed through fraternity living, along with a social education which cannot be gotten anywhere else.

The crowning of a queen, Phyllis DeJana, Delta Sig Dream girl.

One of the Sigs at the Watermelon Bust.

Decorating for the Derby Dance.

One of the contestants for the Pi Kap Pie Eating Contest.

A beard and his date for the Lambda Chi Yukon Days.

The life of a Greek is not a bed of roses. Things come up that an ordinary student would never think of. Floats have to be built, houses have to be run, singing groups have to practice, and grades have to be gotten. The life isn't easy, but the rewards are many, and the satisfaction of doing a thing well more than offsets the hard work.

Schools and Progress

The men who founded this nation, authored its Constitution and Bill of Rights were the best educated men of their day—thinking men of vision.

And, every major advance in the development of our country since has come from men and women equipped by education.

It follows that the core of progress is the school room, the college classroom. It is there the imagination of youth gains the intellectual discipline that turns it into useful thinking.

So from the educated of today will come the better things of life tomorrow.

Engaged in a program of educational aid is
